

Year 6 in Llanes!

Student World

School

Jokes and Guesses

Did you
Know?

Carrera
contra el
Hambre

The Last
Werewolf
Installment?

New
Fiction
Writing

Summer
Fashion

Why
Germany
Will Win the World Cup

Welcome

---

Welcome to the 3rd and final issue of Student World this year.

This has been a short term and a busy one with lots of end of year exams and assessments at the end of term. Because of this, it's been a struggle for everyone to find time to contribute to the magazine and therefore this issue is a bit thinner than the past two.

Nevertheless, it is still jam packed with lots of high quality articles, stories and jokes!

Yet again Mr Boldison has been a big influence and played a vital part in getting Student World done so a massive thanks to him.

Also a thank you to Enrique Vallina who added the finishing touches to this issue in my absence at the end of term.

The Student World Team:

- Lucas Parfitt
- Sara Fernandes
- Ana d'Aubarede
- Paloma Rodriguez
- Celia Mendoza
- EnriqueVallina
- Pablo Pascual
- Carlota Cienfuegos Sánchez
- Stanley Phillipson Brown
- Yaiza Fei Fernández

We would love to add more writers and contributors to the magazine so please do reach out to me if you are at all interested:
schoolmag@colegioingles.co.uk

Your feedback is also incredibly helpful so please speak to me or

Sam Jones, Editor

Enrique Vallina, Assistant Editor

School Fête

Sara Fernandes Diez

Having had different names in the past years, this fair takes place at the end of the year. For me, it was an unknown event, as it is my first year at ESA, so I could not write anything about the past years. I decided to interview some teachers in different sections of the school. I did some before the Fete and some others afterwards. I hope you enjoy it and if you did not go to the fair this year, it encourages you to go to the next one.

BEFORE THE FETE:

-¿Qué preparan los de Nursery para la feria?

Como todos los años, el puesto de pintarse la cara (face painting) que junto con el castillo hinchable, es lo que más les gusta.

-¿Pueden hacer algo los de Nursery en la May Fete?

What is Reception preparing for the May Fete?

A lucky duck stall, in which you have to try and fish for ducks and if you get a star you win a prize.

-What's the best thing about preparing the May Fete?

-What is Y5-A preparing this year?

A human fruit machine, in which three kids pick a fruit from a box and if they're all the same, you get a prize.

AFTER THE FETE:

-What surprised you the most about the May Fete?
(1st year he attends)

What surprised me most about the summer fete was the number of children and parents who attended and the fantastic amount of money that we made.

-What did you enjoy the most about the fair?

I enjoyed seeing my two year old son Santiago playing with children from the school.

Mr Coules, Primary Teacher

Check out everything that happened at the fair:

We hope to see you here next year!

Carrera contra el Hambre

Sara Fernandes Diez

En esta edición de la revista, hemos decidido escribir una sección en español. Esta sección es la correspondiente a la carrera contra el hambre.

Este año, el colegio ha decido unirse a muchos otros colegios del mundo participando en la carrera contra el hambre. La dinámica de la carrera es simple. Los alumnos buscan gente que les den un dinero por cada vuelta que corran. Tras la carrera, los niños recogen el dinero prometido, y lo entregan en el colegio. Dicho dinero será usando con fines benéficos en Antananarivo (Madagascar).

Se corrió por cursos, y al final del día, el niño y la niña que más vueltas dieron de cada clase, participaron en una competición de una vuelta; después de eso, los profesores también hicieron una carrera de exhibición.

Estos últimos eventos contaron con la presencia de Beatriz Manchón, deportista profesional y madre de una alumna del colegio.

He tenido la suerte de poder hacerle una entrevista. Aquí está el resumen de esta:

-¿Qué es lo que más le gusta de practicar deporte?

Entre otras cosas, relacionarme con la naturaleza y otra gente y, por supuesto, competir.

-¿Qué le diría a los jóvenes que practican o empiezan a practicar deporte?

Que disfruten, que lo importante es hacer deporte, no importa cual, y que el deporte es una parte más de la educación que hay que aprovechar.

Year 6 in Llanes

---

Lucas Parfitt, Y6A

On Wednesday the 4th of June 2014 the adventurous, curious Year 6 classes explored Llanes accompanied by Mr Hylton (the year 6A teacher), Mrs Waugh, Señorita Viejo and Mr Coules (the year 3 teacher)! As soon as the two classes arrived in Llanes they went for a two-hour canoe trip down 'El Rio De Sella' and they were all determined to get to the end first (and of course to splash the Teachers).

Soon afterwards they travelled back to their Hotel and organised all their beds and suitcases so they could pass their room inspection. They were also faced with the task of finding a good spot to hide all their sweets before the teachers could find them! Later that day they sat down to a delicious dinner accompanied with a lovely Ice cream at the end. That night many of the children claimed. "We didn't sleep!" When we all know that they actually fell asleep at 11 O'clock, but we all like to sound wild and cool!

On the 5th June the classes decided to go to the beach to have a sand sculpture competition, the best sand sculpture was awarded to the group who designed an aquarium, nevertheless the best teamwork prize was awarded to the group who made a 1m tall pyramid. Soon after, they cooled down with an ice cream and some lunch. At around 3 O'clock they all went souvenir shopping and they bought some weird yet wonderful toys, games and clothes. There was lots of rivalry between the teachers and pupils, they all wanted to get to every store first, but in the end they all had a wonderful time.

The next day the children went for a guided tour all around 'Los Picos De Europa'. They were shown various mines, what iron looked and felt like and they

Did You Know?

Palaoma Rodríguez

The Characters from Spongebob Squarepants are based on the seven deadly sins.

For example, Mr Krabs is based on Greed - this is by far the most obvious comparison that can be made. Plankton is based on envy (Jealousy), and Patrick is based on Sloth (Being lazy).

Hair is made of the same substance as fingernails.

This substance is called Keratin, and it is a tough, insoluble protein which is found in Human hair, human fingernails, animal hair, animal hooves, feathers, antlers, horns, claws, and porcupine quills. It even makes your skin waterproof!

In 1974, a young professor of Architecture in Budapest, Hungary, named Erno Rubik created the Rubiks cube as a model to use to explain advanced maths problems. When the colourful cube got scrambled, it took him over a month to work out the solution to his puzzle, because the Rubiks cube has over 43,252,003,274,490,000,000 possible combinations.

Mantis shrimps can evaporate water

Peacock mantis shrimps use a hammer-like claw to smash open snail shells for food. Not only did high speed imaging reveal that peacock mantis shrimp forelimbs reach maximum speeds from 12-23 m/s (in water!), but it also showed that as a result of the limb's extraordinary speed, the water evaporates

Jokes and Guesses

---

Ana d'Aubarede

Dad: I hate to say this but your swimming costume is very tight.

Mum: Wear your own then.

What do you call a dinosaur wearing high heels?

My –feet-are-saurus!

It has water but does not drink it, it has meat but doesn't eat it, and has ears but isn't a human. What is it?

Last Issue's Answers

- 1) Carrot
- 2) A Dalmatian with Chicken Pox

Summer Fashion

Celia Mendoza

HOW TO KEEP LOOKING COOL THIS SUMMER

CLOTHES & ACCESSORIES

(C.P.V) MODCLOTH.COM

(C.P.V) MODCLOTH.COM

(C.P.V) MODCLOTH.COM

(C.P.V) MODCLOTH.COM

(C.P.V) MODCLOTH.COM

IF YOU WANT TO FIND ANY MORE CLOTHES GO TO WWW.MODCLOTH.COM AND TYPE IN PIN-UP. THERE YOU'LL FIND
EVERYTHING YOU NEED. IF YOU HAVE ANY DOUBTS, QUESTIONS OR SUGGESTIONS E-MAIL ME TO CELIA.ME@COLEGIONGLES.CO.UK.

FASHION
GIRL

Lose Your Heart

---

Carlota Cienfuegos Sánchez

"Go to bed!" my mother shouted.

"Why?" I asked.

"Because I say so, Sarah, isn't that enough for you?" she asked.

I obeyed, even if I didn't want to, because I knew she was right, I should go to bed. Tomorrow was going to be a hard day; tomorrow was the Selection.

On the next morning, after I woke up, I had my breakfast and dressed up with my best dress, a blue one with white dots. Then I took the elevator and went down to the first floor. Later, I took my bike and went to the square, where we should be at one o'clock.

It was a beautiful day; the sun was shining and it made me feel good. The huge buildings seemed higher than usual, but, apart from that, everything was normal. There were lots of people on the street, as always, but that wasn't strange, that was why we did the Selection.

Finally, I arrived at the square. It was a big place in which we celebrated the important events, like the Selection. In the middle of the square, next to a tree, there was a man I had never seen before. He was fat and ugly. He had brown hair, black eyes and a very big nose. He was wearing an elegant white suit. I thought he came from the rich part, because they were the only ones who could wear such elegant suits.

Then the Selection started. I was sat in one side of the square, next to a girl called Stella and a boy called Charles. They both seemed nervous, but the truth was that no-one was smiling; everyone was serious and tense. I waited patiently until the man with the white suit called my name.

"Sarah Stuart, 18 years" I stood up "you're leaving," he said "from now on you are going to be working in the rich part with Mrs and Mr Hunter".

I looked at my mother, she was crying. But I wasn't surprised. I knew what was going to happen, it was obvious. I wasn't a good student, because I was disobedient. I shouted and cried and spent all the day doing nothing. I was a disaster.

They took me to the train. I didn't need anything, because they would give food and clothes there.

I kissed my mother and my little sister, America.

"When are you going to come back?" she asked.

"Soon, I promise." That was the first time I lied her. The truth was that I wouldn't see them again.

Then, the journey started. The train was big and comfortable. My bedroom was white and grey, as the ones of the other 'selected' ones. The food was excellent and the people who served us were very nice. I couldn't believe that, soon, I would be one of them.

After two days we arrived at the city. I had never seen anything like that before. There were huge white buildings and big and colourful houses all around. I could see red, blue and green cars crossing the street. Then, I saw the Hunter's house. It was a big yellow one, very near the main square. A man and a woman were waiting for me at the door. They told me to enter.

The house was the most beautiful thing I had ever seen. The walls were painted of blue and they were decorated with pictures of famous artists. The stairs were of a material very shiny and white. I couldn't believe I was going to live there for the rest of my life.

"This is your uniform" the woman said. "From now on you are going to wear it every day".

I looked at it. It wasn't very colourful but it wasn't ugly. It was grey and black and it had written on it my name and that I worked for the Hunters.

After two months working for them, I knew almost everything about them. They were friendly and affectionate. Mr Hunter was the owner of a factory and Mrs Hunter didn't have a job. I spent every day with her at home, shopping or outside with her friends. She was a very elegant person, beautiful and clever. She would never hurt anyone, even a fly.

As I said, I knew everything about them, except that they had a son, Liam.

He arrived the day of his birthday. I knew that day there was a celebration, Mrs Hunter had told me, but I didn't know it was for him. I supposed Mrs Hunter hadn't told me that because she thought it wasn't relevant.

That night Mrs Hunter gave me a special uniform. She thought I should be beautiful for her son and for her friends. Then the celebration started.

All the guests wore very elegant suits or long beautiful dresses. All of them had serious expressions on their faces.

I was serving the food to a group of people when the tray fell down. The guests shouted. I bent over to clean the food when I saw him.

He had blonde hair and blue eyes. He was tall and handsome. We looked at each other.

When I looked at him I felt something I had never felt before. It was something I couldn't describe.

But, suddenly, Mrs Hunter shouted.

"Sarah, clean the floor and get out of here!"

"I'm sorry, Mrs Hunter. I was..."

"I don't want excuses," she said. "Go immediately to your bedroom and don't get out of there until I tell you to."

I run upstairs and I arrived to my bedroom. Then I started to cry. I was a stupid, an idiot. The tray fell at the worst moment. I was sat in my bed when someone opened the door. It was him, the boy of the party, the son of Mrs Hunter.

"I'm sorry," he said, "I think it was my fault."

"No," I answered. "You didn't do anything at all," I told him while he approached me.

"Really?" he asked.

"Really," I answered.

Suddenly he kissed me. At that moment, I forgot everything. I forgot that was forbidden, I forgot I worked for him. The only thing I could think about was him, his eyes, his smile. I could stay like that forever, in a perfect world, where things were different.

"My name is Liam," he whispered.

Two weeks later Liam and I continued seeing each other and no-one knew it, but that didn't last too long. On Monday next week, the Hunters received a letter, it was written by the Government.

It said they had discovered the relation we had, and that we should know that it was forbidden. But that wasn't the end, the letter said we should go to the Government building, where they would kill one of us. After I read the letter I spent all the day crying. I was really scared.

On the next morning, we went to the Government building. It was grey and high and it was situated in the main square. When we entered we saw a man, who told us what to do.

"You must go to that room. Then you're going to answer some questions and, finally, the girl will die," he said.

"No!" Liam shouted.

"Yes, I..." I started to say but the man interrupted me.

"The girl is not allowed to talk," he said. "If you don't want the girl to die, then you'll have and I don't think that's the best idea."

"I will die," Liam said.

"Whatever you say."

Then, we entered into a small black and dark room, where we did all the man said. I couldn't believe that was happening. I was stupid. How could I think that I could be with him forever and no-one would know it and we would live a fairy tale? I was an idiot. But he wasn't scared. He seemed relaxed, as if nothing was going to happen; as if after that he would go to a better place where no-one could hurt him again. "Maybe he is right," I thought. "Maybe there's a wonderful place out here where he will be happy forever." Then, they took him away.

"I love you, Sarah," he said. "Don't forget it."

That was the last time I saw him alive.

Why Germany Will Win the World Cup

Pablo Pascual

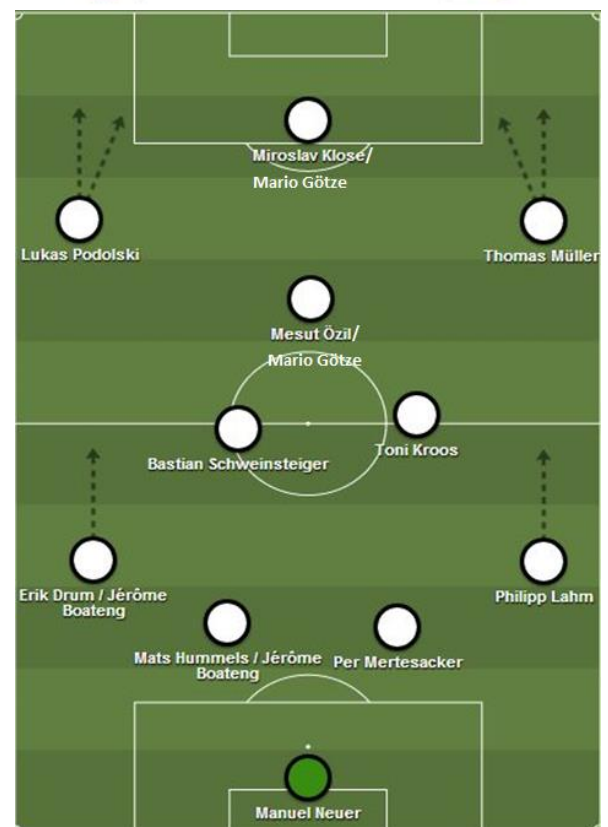

When the present Germany coach, Joachim Löw, first reached the national team in 2008, he started to introduce young players, such as Özil, Neuer or Müller. Now, 8 years later, after one final and three semifinals, the chance for these players to shine and lift the trophy has arrived.

DEFENSE

This is one of the positions where the team has become strongest. In the past few years, the arrival of Matt Hummels has offered more possibilities for Löw, such as allowing Boateng to play in one of the sides or placing Lahm as midfielder. Although Schmelzer, who was going to play as left-back will not be available due to an injury, the "Mannschaft" has other good players, such as Durm or Howedes to cover this position. As to the goalkeeper, Neuer has become a warranty.

MIDFIELD

This is where Germany makes the difference. The national team has a large amount of high-level players: Khedira, Schweinsteiger, Lahm, Kroos, Özil, Götze... who can both create and destroy opportunities and which will be determinant.

Key Players

ATTACK

This is the weakest part of the squad but still reasonably strong. Although Löw is taking to Brazil one only striker, Klose, other players such as Müller or Götze can occupy this position. Klose has not had a good year playing for Lazio, but always does well in the national team. As to the wings, in spite of Marco Reus' unlucky injury, Podolski and Müller have both played well for their respective clubs.

The reason why Germany is one of the main candidates to winning the world cup is that they have many high-level players in almost all positions. Despite the team being generally young, they have adapted to play together with excellent outputs, as can be seen from their results in the qualification stage: with all victories except one draw against Sweden.

Germany's final 23-man squad

Goalkeepers:

- Manuel Neuer (Bayern Munich)
- Roman Weidenfeller (Borussia Dortmund)
- Ron-Robert Zieler (Hanover 96)

Defenders:

- Jerome Boateng (Bayern Munich)
- Kevin Grosskreutz (Borussia Dortmund)
- Erik Durm (Borussia Dortmund),
- Benedikt Höwedes (Schalke 04)
- Mats Hummels (Borussia Dortmund)
- Per Mertesacker (Arsenal)
- Philipp Lahm (Bayern Munich)
- Shkodran Mustafi (Sampdoria)

Midfielders:

- Julian Draxler (Schalke 04)
- Matthias Ginter (Freiburg)
- Mario Götze (Bayern Munich)
- Christoph Kramer (Borussia Mönchengladbach)
- Sami Khedira (Real Madrid)
- Toni Kroos (Bayern Munich)
- Mesut Özil (Arsenal)
- Andre Schürrle (Chelsea)
- Bastian Schweinsteiger (Bayern Munich)

Forwards:

- Miroslav Klose (Lazio)
- Thomas Müller (Bayern Munich)
- Lukas Podolski (Arsenal)